HEBER BURCH AT LAST YOUNG MEN MAY BE DAMAGE SUIT AS THE

EXPRESSES REGRET PROMOTED TO WEST POINT RESULT OF AN ACCIDENT

For the first time since the day he shot Dr. C. F. Osgood to death in an automobile in front of the Commercial National Bank building on Twenty-fourth street, Heber Burch expressed remorse this afternoon for the awful crime. The admission that he was sorry that he killed the doctor came in answer to a question by Attorney Soren X. Christensen during his preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge G. S. Barker, which was started at 1:30 o'clock. The defendant also declared that he was mentally responsible at the time of the shooting and at the present time.

The tragedy of May 2nd, when Dr. Osgood lost his life at the hands of Burch, was rehearsed by Marie Peterson of Ruth, Nevada; Charles V. Harker and Harry G. Shepherd of Evanston, Wyo.; F. B. DeVeto, Dr. G. A. Dixon and Patrolman C. Fitzgerald of the local police department, witnesses for the state. Their examination was conducted by County Attorney Evans and, with the exception of a question as to which side of the automobile the shots were fired, Attorney Christensen, counsel for the defense, made no cross-examination.

Mrs. Peterson said she was standing two feet from the curb in front of Dr. Osgood's automobile and saw Burch fire the first shot at Dr. Osgood. Frightened, she looked down upon her baby which was lying in its buggy in front of her. She heard two more shots and looking up again saw Dr. Osgood loose his grip upon the steering wheel of the automobile and fall to the right side of the road.

Mr. Harker heard the first shot and saw the second two fired, he said, by the defendant. He saw Dr. Osgood crumple up and fall into the right side of the automobile seat and then saw Burch take a step away from the car, break his revolver as though to throw it, and then move away.

This testimony was corroborated by Mr. Shepherd.

Mr. DeVeto, according to his story, heard the shooting and saw the defendant straighten up and step away from the curb. He watched the man and a minute or two later called the attention of Officer Robert Paine to him and the officer placed him under arrest. Patrolman Fitzgerald told of going to the assistance of Dr. Osgood and of picking up two loaded bullets, alleged to have been dropped from Burch's gun, in the gutter after the shooting. Dr. Dickinson testified of hearing the shots and going to Dr. Osgood's automobile and finding his fellow physician dead. The bullets, he said, entered Dr. Osgood's right side below the armpit and ranged toward the heart.

Following the taking of this testimony, the state rested and Attorney Christensen placed his client on the witness stand. Burch told a weird story, first admitting the truthfulness of the witnesses for the prosecution and then, in answer to questions by his attorney, made a long statement of his reason for killing Dr. Osgood.

He first said he killed the physician on account of a grievance. The grievance was that, while he was in a St. Louis hospital in 1904, Dr. Osgood performed an operation on his head, putting a mark there for bad character. The mark, he explained further, was placed on a person's head "for things you might do." The person so marked was known as a "fruit" and forfeited his rights to untaxed property.

The connection between the untaxed property and the mark on his head was made by Burch in a statement that he had taken up a home in Idaho after returning from St. Louis. He said he had lived nearly three years on the land and then given it up on account of a "mental answer" he had received from the land office, to the effect that "there was no more requirement of law."

He also had been "mentally" told that Dr. Osgood had started an "agitation" about the mark on his head and that the "Man in Blue" who was at the head of the land office—advised him to kill the physician. This advice was given, he declared, two years ago and he purchased the land with which he finally carried it out, at that time.

Now He Is Sorry.

At this point, in answer to a question by the attorney, Burch said he was sorry he had killed Dr. Osgood, and that the sorrow had come to him through "being tried." He was not sorry at first for his act, he declared, but felt relieved.

After further statements of similar hazy character, regarding his "mental" talks with the "Man in Blue," in which was a reference to human flesh being left on his head, as a "coyote bait," Burch declared that he was perfectly sane and mentally responsible at all times.

His story was then concluded and he was bound over to the district court for trial on a charge of murder in the first degree.

No Lunacy Board.

When the appointed time for the lunacy board examination of Heber Burch, the slayer of Dr. C. F. Osgood, arrived this morning, Judge James A. Howell advised that he considered the examination unnecessary.

Judge Howell stated that he thought it would establish a bad precedent to examine a person for his sanity by a lunacy board when he had been charged with a crime, especially so grave as a crime of murder in the first degree. He was of the opinion that the state was in duty bound to hold a preliminary hearing, and that the question of the insanity of the man should be taken up in court.

Attorney Soren X. Christensen, for Burch, and County Attorney Joseph E. Evans, complying with Judge Howell's decision, immediately arranged for the preliminary hearing.

Mr. Christensen states that he will either ask the district court for a special jury to hear evidence on the question of insanity, or he will set up an insanity defense and call expert witnesses to testify respecting Burch's mental condition.

"Graft," 13th and 14th episodes at the Lyceum tomorrow.

An opportunity for young men, ambitious to secure appointments as cadets to West Point is now furnished. Young men may secure this appointment after serving one year in the regular army. This condition of serving a year with the regulars is considered an advantage as the time can well be spent in learning the usages of the army; in studying necessary subjects in the barracks, where there are met the temptations to spend one's time in amusements; the enlisted personnel (of the great advantage to an army officer) and in hardening the constitution by drill and calisthenics for the arduous course at West Point.

This is the first time in the history of the country that the doors of this splendid military training school have been opened to young men to secure a $3000 position with an education furnished at government expense, such as no other school in the country furnishes.

This act of congress has just been approved, the text of same follows: "That the president is hereby authorized to appoint cadets to the United States military academy from among the enlisted men of the regular army between the ages of nineteen and twenty-two years, who have served as enlisted men not less than one year, to be selected under such regulations as the president may prescribe."

FINE PANTAGES VAUDEVILLE BILL

Another exceptionally fine bill sent by Pantages to the Orpheum for this week opening tomorrow marked by three headlines and a variety in other offerings which pleases the most exacting.

One of the funniest men in the country, an English, at that, is one of the headlines; he is Chris Richards, soon to be taken out of vaudeville and put into the motion pictures which are to be put out exclusively by Alexander Pantages. He has a new dance step to offer, contortions that defy the eye to follow, a mouth that traverses the winding path of grimaces that is nothing if not original. Most every comedy trick ever invented is his, and to see him is to laugh, laugh, laugh.

No troupe of acrobats has made more of a bit than the Seven Bracks; they are more than the name would indicate, and their performances have a skill and finish that easily set them among the top-notchers.

The Packard Four is a quartette of funmakers who are there with speed, latest Broadway chatter and comical songs and dances. They are well-matched, do good teamwork, and can work just as well singly or in pairs.

Emmett and Emmett and their Irish company, consisting of a terrier, two crows, several doves and a big Plymouth Rock rooster have a charming novelty to offer in vaudeville. Their "Glimpse of Ireland" has a beautiful setting, and the songs by the pretty colleen and the handsome Michael win worthy applause. The dog and the rooster are the real comedy stars of the performance.

There are some Russian gypsies who delight with their native dances, given with much grace and speed under the direction of their high-strung leader. The scene is colorful and spirited, and places the Hirschoff troupe among the best of entertainers.

A good Mutual comedy and some interesting western romances out a splendid bill—Advertisement.

In the district court, Leland Briem, by his guardian ad litem, Max Briem, has commenced a damage suit for alleged personal injuries against the Brown Ice Cream company, seeking damages in the sum of $25,000.

The complaint alleges that on April 18, 1916, an automobile driven by employee of the defendant company collided with a bicycle which the minor plaintiff was riding, throwing the boy to the ground and permanently injuring him. It is averred that Briem was paralyzed in the right leg and arm and that he was otherwise injured. The contention also is that the automobile was being operated at an excessive rate of speed and on the wrong side of the street. The boy is 14 years old.

INDIANS MUST OBEY GAME LAWS

The open season for hunting deer is from October 15 to 31, but it is said that Indians have been continuing their old practices of shooting deer at any time. This practice must cease, however, according to the statement of State Fish and Game Commissioner Fred W. Chambers.

Mr. Chambers says that he has been authorized by the secretary of the department of Indian affairs at Washington, D. C., to see to it that the Indians obey the game laws.

South Americans Unable to Obtain Adequate Tonnage Prepare to Manufacture Raw Material.

BUY U. S. MACHINERY

Concerns to Build Factories—Millions in Gold and Negotiable Paper Brought to United States.

New York, May 17.—Despairing of obtaining adequate tonnage to ship their exports and to bring to them in return needed manufactured articles from the United States numerous big shippers of Central and South America now are buying in this country machinery with which they may return their raw products into manufactured articles for their own trade.

According to Robert Lee Dunn, secretary of the All-American association, a Pan-American trade organization with headquarters here.

"One of these orders," Mr. Dunn said, "was for a complete shoe factory for Colombia, where hides for years before the war constituted one of the chief articles of export trade. Another item of industry soon to be promoted is the manufacture of wire for fencing, telegraph and telephone purposes. Orders for machinery to equip a factory in Brazil for the manufacture of tinware have been placed with New York and Philadelphia firms, and in Argentina there is to be built by an American concern a factory that will turn out nothing but nails."

"Another order recently placed with an American firm by a responsible company doing business in Brazil and Argentina is for a complete rope making factory."

"We are finding more and more that the people of Central America want to do their foreign business here and we also find they are learning that it pays to eliminate the middle man from their transactions and deal direct with the producer. They are also willing to trade on a cash basis. Through this organization we have handled since January 1, almost $500,000 in gold coin, deposited here to draw against in their transactions. In addition to this gold, South and Central American buyers have brought to the United States millions in negotiable paper."

Philadelphia, May 17.—The conference called by the National Shoe Retailers' Association to consider abnormal conditions in the shoe and leather trade that have arisen as a result of the European war will be held in this city on May 25. A. H. Geuting, secretary of the association, said today that the scarcity of material was becoming acute and that further advances in shoe prices would become imperative unless something is done to relieve the situation. It is to keep these advances down to the minimum, he said, that the conference was called.

MRS. MACVEAGH DIES. Washington, May 17.—Mrs. Franklin MacVeagh, wife of the former secretary of the treasury died at her home here today after a long illness. She was Miss Emily Eames of Chicago, before her marriage.

ONTARIO PREMIER ARRIVES. New York, May 17.—V. H. Hearst, premier of Ontario, Canada, arrived here today on the British steamship Parima from Barbados.
